This challenging, fun, dynamic, and interactive course for teenagers promotes independent thinking and a respect for life, dignity, and rights of others.

It will help your students to appreciate the world outside the classroom and foster the acceptance of all cultures, socioeconomic situations, ages, races, opinions, and beliefs.

It also focuses on modern-day global issues such as environment and technology.

STRUCTURE

Crossover contains ten units, a Grammar Reference, and a Glossary. Each unit contains:

- A Unit opener that describes what the students will learn and asks personal and cultural questions about the topic of the unit.
- The Reading page with during- and after-reading questions that will help students comprehend the text.
- Language Focus activities that encourage students to deduce and practice a language point presented on the reading text.
- The Listening page with activities and tips designed to practice pronunciation.
- English in Use activities to encourage students to use the new language.
- A Writing page with meaningful tasks that encourage students to develop basic writing skills.
- A Cross-curricular page that promotes discussion of the topic by relating it to other school subjects.
- A Product page
- A Review

BENEFITS

ENCOURAGES STUDENTS TO DEVELOP DIFFERENT READING STRATEGIES

With a variety of reading texts and tasks your students will be able to apply different reading strategies, such as skimming texts for a gist, scanning texts for specific information, and deducing meanings of unknown words.

STIMULATES STUDENTS' INDEPENDENT LEARNING

Crossover stimulates independent thinking and meaningful learning through a broad variety of content and literature topics, comprehensive treatment of grammar and functions, continuous opportunities for project work, and a full English-English glossary with translations.

HELPS DEVELOP STUDENTS' WRITING SKILLS WITH A CLEAR EASY-TO-FOLLOW PROCESS

Students follow step-by-step instructions to analyze a model, organize their ideas prior to writing, and then produce and edit simple texts.
